

Housing

Moving forward, we continue to echo many of the Minneapolis Advisory Committee on Housing's asks. We recommend that the City Council expand shelter opportunities, prioritize creating and preserving deeply affordable housing, and take action to improve the quality of rental properties. Specifically, we recommend that:

- The City Council adopt the Tenant Opportunity to Purchase ordinance.
  - A draft ordinance has been presented to Council. The ordinance mostly reflects the strongest version of TOPA possible, but exempts property owners who own five or fewer properties. There may be a push in Council to bring that number lower. CM Ellison and CM Chughtai are co-authoring it
- The City Council support community leadership developing affordable trans-specific housing opportunities in Minneapolis.
  - No updates
- The City Council provide more staffing support for Regulatory Services so that they can expand their property owner training and make it mandatory. Regulatory Services would need overtime pay for existing inspectors who conduct these trainings and/or funding for an additional training role.
  - Regulatory Services leadership are not interested in this right now, although they are trying to pilot a new anti-discrimination webinar for property owners
- Other updates:
  - Rent Stabilization workgroup will be formed shortly to start developing a draft ordinance to put before voters in Nov 2023

Community Safety and Healing

Moving forward, we echo our high-level asks for funding to be moved from MPD towards resources for BIPOC trans/GNC community members, especially those who are currently or formerly incarcerated. This could look like legal, mental health, and employment services, guaranteed basic income, and funding for the City's trans equity work, amongst other things. Specifically, we recommend:

- The City Council expand the mobile behavioral health crisis response pilot, as sufficient funding would help ensure faster response times for mental health crisis calls.
  - Program is now running 24/7; staff reported updates to Council in April
- The City Council fund the exploration of alternatives to police response for other problem nature codes that do not statutorily require a police response.
  - $250,000 additional funded to Office of Performance and Innovation in the 2022 budget in order to continue this work. April report to Council included other alternatives to police response, but no new work
  - MPD Staffing Study results presented to Public Health + Safety Council Committee Feb 2nd; concluded that MPD would benefit from exploring more alternative responses and hiring more civilians (non-sworn officers) to take on administrative tasks, and that depending on how much time police are expected to spend doing things other than responding to calls, current staffing levels may be sufficient.

- The City Council support the creation of a Department of Race and Equity, and fund the department sufficiently to carry out all programming outlined in the department ordinance. This should include increased funding for the trans equity programming, as the Summit currently costs $30,000 at minimum, not counting other programming throughout the year, and is being funded primarily by the contributions of organizations tabling at the career and resource fair. In addition, increased trans equity funding could cover the cost of an Urban Scholar or Step-Up intern to develop a local resource list for trans residents, which we are regularly asked for. We ask for the trans equity budget to be increased from $15,000 to $30,000 ongoing, plus funding for one summer intern role.
  - New Executive Director of Race and Equity, Tyeastia Green, has started, and is working to make Race Equity a department and request additional funding. This could happen as part of the restructuring involved in implementing the new “Executive Mayor, Legislative Council” governance structure. The trans equity funding did not increase in the 2022 budget
- The City Council instruct the City Attorney’s Office to look into the possibility of safe use sites in Minneapolis. This is direct feedback from a community listening session on the trans equity work.
  - CM Payne and Interim Health Commissioner Ritchie have asked the Attorney’s Office and are in conversation with community leaders
- The City Council direct contract managers and attorneys for social services contracts over $100,000 (or $175,000 if not ongoing) to incorporate trans equity requirements in their future Requests for Proposals. This work is already in process but requires Council support for staff to prioritize it. Program managers should report back to Council by the end of 2022 with updates on the project’s progress.
  - All relevant City contract managers have met with Track and will go through Gender Inclusivity 101 training. We’re finishing logistics and hoping to get this approved by Council in the next few months; CMs Chughtai and Chavez are co-authoring
- The City Council and relevant departments use City property and/or funding to provide a location for a queer and trans community center. A community center would provide positive youth development opportunities and access to resources in line with the City’s violence prevention goals and public safety SREAP priorities.
  - No updates
- The City Council work with the Mayor’s Office, Civil Rights, and Procurement to include LGBTQ-owned, Disabled-owned, and Veteran-owned Business Enterprises in the City’s definition of Supplier Diversity.
  - Have met with relevant staff; Attorney’s Office advises we wait until we have data from the next disparity study in 2024. In the meantime, exploring other "gender-neutral" ways to get more LGBTQ+ vendors doing business with the City; this will both expand their opportunities and, assuming it doesn’t fully close the disparity, prove the necessity of a “gender-aware” policy, such as expanding the Supplier Diversity definition.
- The City Council work with Intergovernmental Relations to include a LGBTQ+ panic defense bill and protections of queer and trans residents on their legislative agenda.
  - Done!!

- The City Council support Shunu Shrestha's Blueprint to End Human Trafficking, specifically the recommendations around decriminalizing sex work, cannabis/addiction, homelessness, poverty, and mental illness. Immediately, we recommend that the City Council repeal the loitering ordinance, which disproportionately targets BIPOC and trans residents, and uses a significant amount of police time to answer calls where the person in question is often gone by the time cops arrive.
  - First meeting of Decrim Coalition was 4/7
- The City Council continue the Guaranteed Basic Income pilot funded in ARPA Phase 1. San Francisco has piloted a Universal Basic Income proposal specifically for trans residents; we encourage City Council to research and pursue a similar proposal.
  - No updates, but CM Chughtai is interested in supporting
- The City Council continue to encourage the Office of Violence Prevention to take on more trans/GNC specific work. Immediately, the City Council could fund a contract management and administrative role specific to OVP. This would free up valuable staff time to develop the new sexual assault/domestic violence response role, which OVP staff intend to collaborate with the TEC on. The City Council could also increase funding to the OVP Fund, as that is OVP's most flexible funding source for community programming.
  - There is additional funding to OVP in the 2022 Council amendments to the budget but it didn't cover these particular costs. OVP did identify additional opportunities for partnership in reviewing applications to their Blueprint Approved Institute and suggesting content for their violence prevention trainings
- The City Council continue to encourage HR to distribute the City's trans equity in the workplace survey as soon as possible. This will help create a better work environment for trans and GNC employees, therefore improving the City's work on all of the previously mentioned outcomes.
  - Track and Destiny are reviewing potential next steps based on survey results – Destiny presenting in 3/10/22 TEC meeting on results. Opportunity for TEC members to join workgroup on implementation
- The City Council commission a study of best practices in City government policy for trans equity. In developing these recommendations, we searched for a compilation of best policies from other jurisdictions, but found that no such compilation exists. We would love for it to come from Minneapolis.
  - No updates
- Other updates:
  - Minneapolis Police Federation Contract came before Council on March 7th
  - After-action review of City's response to uprising came before Council on March 8th; City's update on their next steps in response came before COW on April 12th
  - Mayor's Office announced new no-knock warrant policy on April 5th
  - Department of Public Safety ordinance drafting doesn't have enough votes; the option now is to move forward with the Mayor's Office of Community Safety including MPD

Training

In the last year, the TEC has worked with HR to select new contractors for the City's Gender Inclusivity 101 training, and will pilot the training in the next few weeks before it is rolled out across the Enterprise.

Broadly, we recommend an expansion of the training opportunities that exist for both City staff and those we contract with. Specifically, we recommend:

- The City Council increase the HR Learning and Development budget by $10,000, with the specific purpose of funding not only an introductory-level trans equity training, but also a deeper dive follow-up.
  - No updates
- The City Council instruct HR staff to expand their advertising strategies for the Gender Inclusivity 101 training.
  - Track and HR have worked together on expanded advertising, and requests for training have increased significantly
- The City Council provide $7500 annually to Minneapolis Employment and Training to support two introductory LGBTQ competency trainings and one advanced-level LGBTQ competency training for their providers. Minneapolis Employment and Training staff presented to the TEC earlier this year about their plans to better support LGBTQ community, and we collectively identified these trainings as a first step.
  - Training is happening on June 2nd!

Bathrooms

Over the last six months, the TEC worked with CPED and Council staff to add language encouraging all-gender restroom construction and equitable bathroom access to the City's Single Room Occupancy Ordinance. We thank all of the Council offices that were involved in making that happen. We have also had conversations with CPED around how they could more effectively encourage all-gender bathroom construction on new builds, but have not reached actionable next steps.

Overall, we seek to create a Minneapolis with more all-gender restrooms, and more confirmation of equitable and safe restroom access for residents using gendered bathrooms as well. Specifically, we recommend:

- The City Council encourage equitable bathroom access in non-City buildings by directing Civil Rights staff to promote "Know Your Rights"-type materials on the topic.
  - No updates
- The City Council instruct Community Planning and Economic Development staff to recommend all-gender bathroom construction on new builds when meeting with business owners and architects requesting permits from the City. CPED staff can also determine which other licensing or permitting meetings should involve a conversation about gender-neutral bathrooms as well.
  - Ward 12 (CM Johnson) was interested but has been out of the office due to family emergencies. Track is also meeting with the East African, Latinx, and Southeast Asian Community Engagement Specialists to think through multi-stall bathroom options that best serve everyone's needs
- Following the example set in Philadelphia, which has required all single-stall restrooms in city retail establishments to be gender-neutral, the City Council should instruct the City Attorney's Office to research the legal parameters for adopting this or similar policy here.

- Presented to Council; did not receive ARPA funding in the Mayor's proposed budget but can ask Council for funding and pursue external funding if we don't get it internally

Role of Appointed Boards

Over the last six months, the TEC has provided feedback to numerous City departments via presentations in our monthly meetings. We want to see a City infrastructure that takes our Appointed Boards and Commissions seriously, actualizes their recommendations, and gives them the tools they need to succeed. Specifically, we recommend that:

- City departments should continue to use the TEC and other Appointed Boards and Commissions as a resource and consult us on policy and engagement work.
  - No updates
- The City Council direct the Clerk's Office to develop a directory, listserv, or other infrastructure, in compliance with Open Meeting Law, that would support members of different ABC's in collaborating with each other and more easily sharing feedback. None of our work exists in a vacuum, and all of our work would benefit from collaboration.
